Danderine

Grows Hair

ANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and numbine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhibitanting, atimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and heautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause now hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth

Wonderful Rifled Pipe Line,

niles long, has just been completed in the California oil fields. It runs from Oil City, in the famous Coalinga counthy, to the seaboard near Port Gosta, and its length is the least wonderful thing about it.

In this immense tube, with pumping stations twenty-four miles apart, a complete inner tube of flying, whirling water, keeps the heavy crude oil from the steel pipe. The well known anti-pathy of oil and water keeps the carried fluid and the carrier apart, but until the autumn of 1907, this comporetively simple principle had not been brought into use and the problem of the transportation of oil was the greatest the producers of the West Coast sceamers which are soon to ply the Pacitic, will be fed from this line, by which 17,000 to 20,000 barrels of thick fourteen degree fuel oil can be moved over one of the twenty-four mile sections every twenty-four hours. The pipe line, which, by the way, is the invention of John D. Isaacs, consulting engineer of the Southern Pacific company, and Buckner Sueed, is first rifled. These rifles or corrugations, are about one-eighth of an inch in depth and make one complete revolution of the pipe line in every ten lineal feet.

Instead of heating the oil to thin it and make it travel the more easily through the pipe, as is the custom on all the Pennsylvania, Indiana and ginia lines, the heavy black fluid in this case is shot into the pipe cold, with a ten percent addition of water. The centrifugal force given to the hole mass by the rifling of the pipe, brown the water to the outside, forming a perfect sheate or coating in which he oil travels, completely separated from the guardinan water. This film between the oil and the pipe naturally reduces the friction to a great degree, as well as carrying along the oil at a much greater speed than thinner oil of higher gravity, which is much easier to move, has ever been carried before.
